

Top 5 Ways Volunteers Can Help with Implementation

1. Thank your legislator if they voted yes for smoke-free air

- Legislators loved to be thanked!
 - Call your legislator and say: "My name is _____ I just wanted to tell _____ how much I appreciated that they voted yes to the Smoke-Free Wisconsin Act. I can hardly wait for July 2010.
 - Or write them a short card or send an email.
- Don't know if your legislator voted yes? Ask your local tobacco free coalition coordinator or check the Senate and Assembly vote list.

2. Write letters to the editor

- Share your perspective on how life will be better and what you're looking forward to.
- Media coverage of the benefits of smoke-free air will help your community get ready.

3. Find a business that is going smoke-free early

- Let your coalition coordinator know. This is a great story for your local newspaper.

4. Help educate others about the law

- The smoke-free air law has a lot of details. You can help your community by getting trained to educate others.

5. Ask your coalition coordinator for activities specific to your community

Keep track of what you do. Remember to tell your local tobacco free coalition coordinator what you did. Include articles from the newspaper, pictures, stories and any comments you received.

With your help, Wisconsin will make a smooth transition to smoke-free air.
